In order to boost entrepreneurship and support the startup ecosystem in our country, the Government has taken various regulatory measures. Government introduced several relaxations under the Companies Act for Start-ups to reduce the operational and compliance burden. There are also several tax related measures for Start-ups to get easy access to Indian as well as foreign funds to promote investments.

With the growing business, Startup entrepreneurs need to focus on compliance, internal control and governance procedures in addition to tax and regulatory incentives. It is also essential for an entrepreneur to be tax compliant from the very beginning. Structuring a correct setup from the beginning may help entrepreneurs to prevent future complications and mitigate regulatory and tax related risks at a future stage.
