IMC MILESTONES
Dear Readers,

Season’s Greetings!

I pray that the festival of lights has ushered in a year filled with happiness, prosperity and good health for all. As we currently seem to be coming out of the pandemic era slowly and steadily, I hope to envision ourselves in better business growth in the coming months.

On the occasion of India’s 75th year of Independence, our Hon. Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced an innovative project called the ‘PM Gati Shakti Master Plan’ which includes a Rs. 100 lakh-crore project for the development of ‘holistic infrastructure’. The launch of this plan on 13th October 2021, was seen as a landmark administrative reform milestone that seeks to eliminate major inter-ministerial tangles in infra development while reducing cost, thereby propelling India towards its achievement of a $5 trillion economy.

This remarkable initiative will truly see an actual impact on the reduction of logistics cost and an improvement on the ease of living. This will further enable a far reaching impact across the various states of India as well. With this initiative, experts predict the cost of logistics borne will reduce to 8% of the GDP from the current 13-14% of the GDP. As mentioned by the Hon. Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi in his interactions, there was a stretch of 200 kms of the Metros earlier, which has now been increased to 700 kms which are now functional. He has also assured that a stretch of 1000 kms of the Metro is likely to be functional by 2024. Indeed a visionary step taken by our Hon. Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi ji.

With an improvement in the economic scenario according to a recent report by the IBEF (India Brand Equity Foundation), there have been investments across various sectors of the economy. The private equity - venture capital (PE-VC) sector recorded investments worth US$ 10.7 billion across 137 deals in August 2021, registering a 5x YoY growth. India’s merchandise exports between April 2021 and August 2021 were estimated at US$ 164.10 billion (a 67.33% YoY increase). Merchandise imports between April 2021 and August 2021 were estimated at US$ 219.63 billion (an 80.89% YoY growth). In August 2021, the Manufacturing Purchasing Managers’ Index (PMI) in India stood at 52.3. The gross GST (Goods and Services Tax) revenue collection stood at Rs. 112,020 crore (US$ 15.21 billion) in August 2021. According to the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT), FDI equity inflow in India stood at US$ 547.2 billion between April 2000 and June 2021. India’s Index of Industrial Production (IIP) for July 2021 stood at 131.4 against 122.6 for June 2021. Consumer Food Price Index (CFPI) – Combined inflation was 3.11 in August 2021 against 3.96 in July 2021. Consumer Price Index (CPI) – Combined inflation was 5.30 in August 2021 against 5.59 in July 2021. Foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) invested US$ 2.5 billion in India in August 2021.

The RBI’s Bi-Monthly Monetary Policy announced in October 2021, welcomed a balanced and sustained growth oriented accommodative policy. A strong support for adequate liquidity, support for state governments and priority sector guidelines while closely monitoring slack demand was most aptly addressed. IMC believes the policy is on expected lines though the industry suspected a hawkish stance.

What has been most comforting was that going forward as well, there is a reassurance of no shocks or jolts to be expected in the policy, which is a major change from the past.

In September 2021, we celebrated the 115th Foundation Day of the IMC. Mrs. Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Executive Chairperson, Biocon and Biocon Biologics graced the occasion with her presence. She mentioned that the organisation has been adjusting their values and purpose statements, with millennials keen on working for firms that stand for something. She also delivered an insightful Foundation Day Address on Capitalism to Compassionate Capitalism.

This year, the IMC Ramkrishna Bajaj National Quality Award Trust completed 25 years of the award process. To mark this milestone the Trust planned a new initiative, which was the IMC Ramkrishna Bajaj Memorial Lecture. This was held on 22 September 2021 which was also the birth anniversary of Shri Ramkrishna Bajaj, a great Visionary, business leader and philanthropist.

On 27th September 2021, which was celebrated as World Tourism Day, we had a timely discussion on ‘Tourism for Inclusive Growth’. This included a virtual address by Mrs. Valsa Nair Singh (IAS), Principal Secretary, Tourism, Excise & Civil Aviation, Government of Maharashtra. The online interaction was organised with a focus to celebrate tourism’s unique ability to ensure that nobody is left behind as the world begins to open up again and look to the future.

Under ‘Global Connect’, the IMC had a meeting with H.E. Mr. Hugo Javier Gobbi, Ambassador of the Argentine Republic to India, Mr. Agus P. Saptono, Consul General, Consulate General of the Republic of Indonesia, Mumbai and Ms. Andrea Kuhn, Consul General of the Republic of South Africa, Mumbai, to develop potential business opportunities amongst these countries.

As I conclude, I would like to mention the theme of this issue is ‘Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav’. In keeping with this theme, we have covered a few articles on ‘Unsung Heroes’ and ‘Digital District Repository’. We are thankful to the Union Ministry of Culture for allowing us to reproduce some of the them selected at random with no particular preference. For want of space, we cannot accommodate all those great historical moments and unsung heroes who contributed to the freedom that we enjoy today. But I recommend you to visit the website (https://amritmahotsav.nic.in/) from where we have sourced these articles. I do hope you will enjoy reading all the articles and content published in this issue.

Till the next issue, stay well, stay safe.
Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav – Time to reflect and rededicate

G. Chandrashekhar
Economic Advisor, IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry and Director, IMC-ERTF

For a nation with a very long history spanning several millennia, 75 years is but a small fraction of its life. Yet, this milestone of 75 years from the time of independence from foreign rule and ushering in of democracy in our country is a time for celebration. Even as we celebrate, let’s rest on the milestone a wee bit to introspect about the country’s journey of the last seven-and-a-half decades and envision the path forward that will genuinely reflect the true meaning of democracy and the spirit of India. Let’s also ponder why we are where we are today and design the pathway we want to traverse in the decades ahead.

Freedom from foreign rule was fought and won after decades of struggle. The struggle was largely without the use of deadly armaments and without large-scale bloodshed. Ironically, the weapon deployed was non-violence, what we call Satyagrah. No one but one man imagined non-violence can win a war; but the result was dramatic, telling and effective.

As a nation, India has come a long way since 1947. But it is important to remember history. In the first 15 centuries of recorded history, India known as Bharatvarsh was the world’s superpower - the engine of economic growth and cultural soft power. The sub-continent accounted for 27 percent of world GDP and about a quarter of world trade continuously for 1500 years.

Another Asian behemoth China caught up with India in 1600s and 1700s. The two countries together accounted for close to half of world GDP and world trade for two centuries. In India, the rot set in sometime in the late 18th century with systematic plundering of the country’s wealth and conscious degrading of the social fabric.

We have to study and learn from history because history tends to repeat itself if we forget its lessons. Be that as it may, we have to be honest enough to admit that India’s track-record of the last 75 years presents a mixed picture. We have a well thought-through Constitution of India. We hold elections fairly peacefully from time to time. Governments come and go; but people decide who to elect. Our judiciary and our Constitutional authorities are equipped to ensure the rule of law. Great strides have been made in the areas of science, technology and space exploration.

No wonder, India is today one of world’s fastest growing significant economies. With GDP testing USD Three Trillion, we are the 5th largest economy in the world and in terms of PPP (purchasing power parity) the 3rd largest. Yet, there is belief, India has a long way to go before claiming to be an economic superpower.

We enjoy extraordinary endowments of Mother Nature. There are not many countries in this world with multitude of natural endowments including 300 days of sunshine, 900 millimeters of rainfall, varied agro-climatic conditions, 7,500 kilometers of coastline, hundreds of rivers crisscrossing the country, biodiversity, a billion pair of hands to work, and of late, a young population with robust aspirations. The entrepreneurial spirit of Indians is well recognized. Yet, our farm sector which provides livelihood to nearly half of the working population has been performing below potential. We have to leverage our strengths to make the country a truly progressive and forward looking economic power of the world.

Without doubt, our economic growth story, especially of the last two decades, is inspiring. Maybe we could have done even better than what has been achieved, but it is an inspiring story nonetheless. Where have we slipped? While our economy has been recording impressive growth rates for years, the benefits of such robust economic growth have not percolated equitably among large sections of the population. We have growth, but no equity. We need growth with equity. That’s the true spirit and interpretation of democracy. We need to lift millions out of poverty, and quickly.

No wonder, India ranks rather low in Human Development Index and Global Hunger Index. We have to consciously design policies and work towards substantially improving the rank in a time-bund manner. Our social sector policies are as important and as critical as our economic policies and programs. Both education and healthcare are critical for every citizen. So is food and nutrition security. There is tremendous scope to improve our education and health infrastructure as well as improve the nutrition status. This calls for a thorough review of the existing processes and investment priorities.

So, let us all celebrate this milestone of 75 years even as we rededicate ourselves to ensuring economic growth with equity and inclusivity in the decades ahead. In a manner of speaking, no one can stop the march of this country. It is in our hands, especially in the hands of the youth of this country, to ensure we live in an egalitarian and inclusive nation that shines as a beacon of inspiration for others.

2047 is not far away. In 25 years from now we would celebrate the centenary of independence. That celebration should be for complete independence from poverty and depravity while ushering in prosperity and harmony all around.
The man who designed the Tricolour

Krishna, Andhra Pradesh
12th March, 2021

Pingali Venkayya was a freedom fighter and the designer of the Indian National Tricolour who went on to become synonymous with the spirit of free and independent India. The national flag that we see today was based upon his design. His life and contribution to the freedom struggle have barely been documented.

Born on August 2, 1876 in Krishna district of Andhra Pradesh, Venkayya served as a soldier in the British Army in South Africa during the Anglo Boer war in Africa. A firm believer in Gandhian principles and an ardent nationalist, Venkayya met the Mahatma during the war. He was 19 when the meeting took place and formed an association which would last for more than 50 years.

He met the Mahatma once again in Vijayawada and showed him his publication with the various designs of the flag. Acknowledging the need for a national flag, Gandhi then asked Venkayya to design a fresh one at the national congress meeting in 1921.

Initially, Venkayya came up with saffron and green colours, but it later evolved with a spinning wheel at the centre and a third colour-white. The flag was officially adopted by the Indian National Congress in 1931.

In 2009, a stamp was also issued to commemorate him, and the Andhra Pradesh government recommended his name for the Bharat Ratna in 2014.

In 2015, the then Urban Development Minister M. Venkaiah Naidu renamed the AIR Vijaywada after Venkayya and unveiled his statue on its premises.

12-yr-old who died hoisting the tricolour in 1942

Sonitpur, Assam, 09th August, 2021

September 20 is observed in the Dhekiajuli town in Sonitpur district of Assam as Martyrs’ Day, as it is the same day in which Tileswari Barua, who was shot at the age of 12 by the British, during the Quit India Movement, when she and some freedom fighters tried to unfurl the Tricolour atop a police station.

Tileswari went along with a mrityu vahini — a kind of suicide squad — as it marched towards the police station in Dhekiajuli. Fifteen people were killed in the shooting that day. Tileswari was the eldest of four children of Bhabakanta Barua of Nij-Borgaon village on the outskirts of Dhekiajuli. She is believed to have been influenced by the patriotic songs that Congress volunteers were singing every day.

Tileswari was a little behind Monbor Nath, who headed the local mrityu vahini and was leading the group. When Nath defied orders of the police officer and climbed atop the police station, he was gunned down within a few seconds. Other volunteers followed, one by one. Tileswari was the fourth to be hit by the bullet after Nath, Kumoli Devi and Mohiram Koch.
Durgabai Deshmukh was an Indian freedom fighter, lawyer, social worker and politician. She was a member of the Constituent Assembly of India and of the Planning Commission of India.

From her early years, Durgabai had been associated with Indian politics. At age 12, she left school in protest to the imposition of English-medium education. She later started the Balika Hindi Paathshala in Rajamundry to promote Hindi education for girls. She was a follower of Mahatma Gandhi in India’s struggle for freedom from the British Raj. She was a prominent social reformer who participated in Gandhi-led Salt Satyagraha activities during the Civil Disobedience Movement.

She was instrumental in organising women satyagrahis in the movement. This led to British Raj authorities imprisoning her three times between 1930 and 1933.

She failed to get elected to Parliament in 1952, and was later nominated to be a member of the Planning Commission. She was also the first to emphasise the need to set up separate Family Courts after studying the same during her visit to China in 1953. Durgabai was awarded a Padma Vibhushan.

The Champaran Satyagraha of 1917 was the first Satyagraha movement led by Gandhi in India and is considered a historically important revolt in the Indian Independence Movement. It was a farmer’s uprising that took place in Champaran district of Bihar, India, during the British colonial period. The farmers were protesting against having to grow indigo with barely any payment for it.

When Gandhi returned to India from South Africa in 1915, and saw peasants in northern India oppressed by indigo planters, he tried to use the same methods that he had used in South Africa to organize mass uprisings by people to protest against injustice.

Champaran Satyagraha was the first popular satyagraha movement. The Champaran Satyagraha gave direction to India’s youth and freedom struggle, which was tottering between moderates who prescribed Indian participation within the British colonial system, and the extremists from Bengal who advocated the use of violent methods to topple the British colonialists in India.

80-year-old takes up fight against the British

Bhojpur, Bihar, 12th March, 2021

Kunwar Singh was a leader during the Indian Rebellion of 1857. He belonged to a family of the Ujjainiya clan of the Parmar Rajputs of Jagdispur, currently a part of Bhojpur district, Bihar, India. At the age of 80, he led a selected band of armed soldiers against the troops under the command of the British East India Company. He was the chief organiser of the fight against the British in Bihar. He is popularly known as Veer Kunwar Singh.

Singh led the Indian Rebellion of 1857 in Bihar. He was nearly eighty and in failing health when he was called upon to take up arms. He was assisted by both his brother, Babu Amar Singh and his commander-in-chief, Hare Krishna Singh. Some argue that the latter was the real reason behind Kunwar Singh’s initial military success. He gave a good fight and harried British forces for nearly a year and remained invincible until the end. He was an expert in the art of guerilla warfare. His tactics left the British puzzled.

To honour his contribution to India’s freedom movement, the Republic of India issued a commemorative stamp on 23 April 1966. The Government of Bihar established the Veer Kunwar Singh University, Arrah in 1992.

In 2017, the Veer Kunwar Singh Setu, also known as the Arrah–Chhapra Bridge, was inaugurated to connect north and south Bihar. In 2018, to celebrate 160th anniversary of Kunwar Singh’s death, the government of Bihar relocated a statue of him to Hardinge Park. The park was also officially renamed as ‘Veer Kunwar Singh Azadi Park’.

A Memorial for the Dandi Marchers

Navsari, Gujarat, August 09, 2021

Gandhi around the world. It has been conceived as an experimental journey recreating the spirit and the energy of the historic Dandi March, 1930. It has been built at the site where Gandhiji and his fellow marchers picked up salt from the sea beach to break the Salt Law of then British India. The Memorial takes the citizens step-to-step in understanding the history of the March and the methodology of Satyagraha, that finally led to India’s freedom from colonial rule.

A statue of Gandhiji inside a pyramid of light, followed by a cluster of life-size bronze casted sculptures of the 80 fellow marchers. A light pyramid is formed every evening, rising and lighting the salt crystal at the sky top.

There is an artificial lake along which 24 bass-relief sculptural narrative murals are mounted, depicting the events and themes of the Dandi March. In addition, the complex houses a library, a book shop, an auditorium, and an activity space. Visitors can make a pinch of salt that can be taken away as a memory of their visit to the Memorial. The main statue of Gandhiji has been designed by renowned Indian Sculptor Sadashiv Sathe, and 40 sculptors from around the world were invited to cast 80 marchers.

The National Salt Satyagraha Memorial, Dandi, is one of the best memorials dedicated to Mahatma Gandhi around the world.
Brigadier Rajinder Singh Jamwal, also remembered as the Saviour of Kashmir, was an officer in the Jammu and Kashmir State Forces who died fighting during the Indo-Pakistani War of 1947–1948. He and his troops held on to their positions in Uri for three days from 23rd October 1947 to 26th October 1947. They repelled waves of enemy attack and stood until the last bullet. On 27th October 1947, the Maharaja of Kashmir signed the instrumentation of annexation with India. India troops quickly rushed in to support Brigadier Rajinder Singh.

These three days were crucial because if Srinagar would have fallen, then Kashmir might never have been part of India.

Brigadier Rajinder Singh was honored posthumously with the MahaVir Chakra by Army chief Field Marshall K.M.Carriapa on 30th December 1949.

Born in Dhenkanal, Odisha, Baji Rout was the youngest Indian freedom fighter and martyr, having been killed at the age of twelve. Rout, who was a boat boy, was shot by British police when he refused to ferry them across the Brahmani River on the night of 11 October 1938 at Nilakanthapur Ghat. As an active member of the Banar Sena (composed of young children) of the Prajamandal, he had volunteered to keep watch by the river at night. The British Police force ordered him to cross the river by his boat which he denied. The police force then fired upon Baji Rout along with Laxman Mallik and Fagu Sahoo.

The bravery and patriotism of young Baji Rout has been immortalized in the poem 'Boatman' by the Jnanpith award-winner Sachidanand Routray. It opens with the sentence -

“It is not a pyre, O Friends! When the country is in dark despair, it is the light of our liberty. It is our freedom-fire”
Born to an extremely wealthy Parsi business family, Bhikaji Cama (née Patel) received her early education in Bombay (now Mumbai). Influenced by an environment in which the Indian nationalist movement was taking root, she was drawn toward political issues at an early age. In 1885 she married Rustomji Cama, a well-known lawyer, but her involvement with sociopolitical issues led to differences between the couple. Because of marital problems and her poor health, which required medical attention, Cama left India for London.

It was in London that Bhikaji Cama met Dadabhai Naoroji and inspired by his ideals plunged into the freedom movement. She also began to meet with other Indian nationalists like Shyamji Varma, Lala Hardayal, and soon became one of the active members of the movement. She began to publish booklets for the Indian community in England, propagating the cause of Swaraj.

“March forward! We are for India. India is for Indians!” she defiantly declared. She also toured US, where she gave speeches on the ill effects of British rule, and urged Americans to support the cause of India's freedom.

Madam Bhikaji Cama became the first person to hoist the Indian flag in foreign land on 22 August 1907. While unfurling the flag at the International Socialist Conference in Stuttgart, Germany, she appealed for equality and autonomy from the British which had taken over the Indian sub-continent.

Nellie Sengupta (née Edith Ellen Gray) was an Englishwoman who fought for Indian Independence, after she relocated to India post her marriage to Jatindra Mohan Sengupta. She was elected president of the Indian National Congress at its 48th annual session at Calcutta in 1933.

Nellie participated in the Non-Cooperation Movement of 1921. She also forcefully protested against the district authority’s imposition of a ban on assembly, addressed mass meetings and courted arrest. She defied the law by selling Khadi (hand-spun cloth) door to door. In 1931 she suffered four months’ imprisonment at Delhi for addressing an unlawful assembly.

When many senior leaders of the party were arrested during Salt Satyagraha, Nellie was appointed as the President of Congress. She became the third woman to be elected to the post.

She was awarded the Padma Vibhushan by the Government of India in 1973.

Alluri Seetarama Raju
Visakhapatnam, Andhra Pradesh

In the tribal areas, the villagers were exploited by Britishers, as they lacked knowledge and were powerless. Sri Alluri Seetarama became the voice and strength to them. She united various tribes, taught them guerrilla warfare and trained them to fight back with the colonial power. He was one of the bravest revolutionaries and freedom fighters. He was born on 4th July 1897 to Alluri Venkata Rama Raju and Suryanarayanamma. He remains an idol for the tribesmen of Andhra Pradesh.

When the British government passed the Forest Act, 1882 (that banned the villagers from practicing their traditional agricultural system of shifting cultivation, forcing them to raise particular types of crops). Alluri Seetarama initiated the famous “Rampa Rebellion” or Manyam Rebellion in 1922-1924. During the period of two years, he fought multiple times with the British troops, always winning against them. This gave him the title of “Manyam Veerudu” or the “Hero of Jungle”. The Britishers were focused on capturing and defeating him. He was captured by the British deployed Assam rifle battalion.

In the year 1986, the Indian Postal Department issued a stamp on his behalf, featuring his struggle for Independence.

Chandraprabha Saikiani
Kamrup, Assam

An Assamese social reformer, writer, teacher, and women’s rights activist, Chandraprabha Saikiani established the All Assam Pradeshik Mahila Samiti in the year 1926. She was a zealous supporter of women’s and girls’ education. In 1918, during the Assam session of the Asom/Axom Chhatra (Assam Students) Sammilan, she ardently spoke about the ill effects of opium consumption and demanded for its ban. She was against caste discrimination and attacked it with the help of the teachings of Srimanta Sankardev (a 15th-16th century social revolutionary).

Chandraprabha Saikiani also demanded for the entry of women at religious places and rituals. She became a part of the Non-Cooperation Movement and participated with enthusiasm in the Indian freedom struggle. In the state of Assam, she was the second woman novelist. She shed light on the position of women in Assamese society by describing her own life in her novel Pririvitha. For seven years, she was the editor of Abhijaytri (mouthpiece of All Assam Pradeshik Mahila Samiti). She was awarded with the Padmashree Award in 1972. She inspired many youths to participate in the Indian freedom struggle.
We are familiar with the story of Indian independence and the role of Mahatma Gandhi in the Champaran struggle. Raj Kumar Shukla was the farmer behind the Champaran Kisan Movement, one that symbolizes the Indian Freedom Struggle and the role of Gandhiji. The Britishers imposed the ‘tinkathia’ system upon the farmers of Champaran wherein they were imposed to grow indigo on 3/20th of their land. Ram Kumar was himself suffering at the hands of this exploitative system. He emerged as a forefront leader of the struggle against discrimination done by the colonial power in Champaran region. Raj Kumar was the person who convinced Gandhiji to visit Champaran. He briefed the latter about the issues being faced by the farmers of the district and as to how were they exploited by the British colonial authorities. It was due to his efforts that farmers were freed from the forced Indigo cultivation. Thereby, linking the history of Champaran within the narrative of Indian history. Gandhiji adopted Satyagraha for the first time on the Indian soil in Champaran. This struggle granted the people of the nation with a new zeal of fervor and confidence. The Indian national struggle entered a new phase after the success of Champaran Satyagraha.

Pursottam Kakodkar was born in 1913. He participated in the underground activities during Quit India Movement (1942-45). He was associated with Mahatma Gandhi and was at the Ashram at Wardha. He founded Goa Seva Sangha - a socio-political organization in 1945. He organized spinning classes for producing Khadi cloth, conducted prayers and pravachans, Seva Dal activity and hoisting of the Indian National flag. He also distributed charkas and mobilized ‘Goa Seva Sangh’ volunteers and other forces for the ‘Civil Disobedience Movement’. He was tried by Territorial Military Court and was sentenced to nine years imprisonment. He was deprived of civil rights for fifteen years and was deported to Portugal. He was released in 1956 and returned to Goa in 1957. He died in 1998.

Samaldas Gandhi
Porbandar, Gujarat

Samaldas Gandhi was an Indian independence activist born in 1897. He headed the ‘Aarzi Hukumat’ or Temporary Government of the erstwhile Princely State of Junagadh. Samaldas was a close follower of his uncle, Mahatma Gandhi. He started new newspaper named “Vande Mataram”. He played a prominent role in the integration of Junagadh into India. When the Nawab of Junagadh acceded his State to Pakistan in 1947, Samaldas headed a Government-in-exile created by citizens of Junagadh to reflect the wishes of its majority population, who instead wished the State to become part of India. When Indian forces entered Junagadh and its Principalities, Mangrol and Manavadar, at the invitation of the Nawab’s Dewan, Sir Shah Nawaz Bhutto, Samaldas was invited to accept the reins of the State but deferred to the Government of India. He died in 1953.

Dina Nath Zadoo and Kanti Chandra Zadoo

Anantnag, Jammu & Kashmir

Dina Nath Zadoo and Kanti Chandra Zadoo were born in 1916 and 1918, respectively, to Prof. Jagaddhar Zadoo (the first Kashmiri scholar to work with Japanese and Russian Sanskrit scholars). Dina Nath Zadoo worked as the Captain in the Indian National Army (INA). He fought at Malaysia. He died in 1986 in India.

Kanti Chandra Zadoo was the Personal Secretary of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose. He is believed to have been on board the same aircraft which mysteriously crashed in the year 1945, resulting in the death of Subhash Chandra Bose and Kanti Chandra both (Although, for many people the death of Netaji has been a bone of contention in the history of Indian freedom struggle).

Kittur Rani Chennamma

Belagavi (Belgaum), Karnataka

She led an armed rebellion against the British policy of 'Doctrine of Lapse', i.e. annexation on the lapse of direct heirs leading to the confiscation of Princely property. Chennamma had looked after Sivalinga Sarja, her son who died and before her husband's death, her husband Mallappa Sarja adopted the son of Mastamaradi Gowda. The Political Agent the Dharwad Collector incharge St. John Thackeray refused to recognize the adoption. Chennamma resolved to oppose the British. On 23 October, 1824, Thackeray was killed and the Political Agents Elliot and Stevenson were taken prisoners. Chennamma was captured by the British and imprisoned at Bailhongal for six years. Chennamma died on 21 February, 1829 in prison.

Vasudeo Balvant Phadke

Raigad, Maharashtra

Modern India’s first revolutionary, Phadke, is regarded as the ‘Father of the Armed Struggle for India’s Freedom’. Young Phadke, who considered Shivaji as his role model, is said to have been the inspiration for Bankimchandra’s Anandamath. Phadke took a vow to use Khadi and Swadeshi. He founded the Aikyavardhini Sabha in order to ventilate popular grievances. In 1874, he also established the first school of national education in Pune.

The unfair disposal of the Gaikwaad of Baroda by the British in 1875 hurt the sentiments of the people. The callousness of the British rulers in dealing with the death and devastation caused by a famine, too, angered the people. Phadke toured Vasudeo Balvant Phadke the Deccan fomenting disaffection against the British and pleading for Swaraj. He gathered a band of about 300 Bhils, Kolis, Ramoshis and Dhangras to attack the political and economic strongholds of the regime. Although, his attacks met with limited success. When the government offered a reward for his capture, Phadke countered by offering a higher reward for the capture of Governor of Bombay. He was captured in the Nizam’s dominion in July 1879 and sent to Aden, where he died on 17 February 1883.

Bhikaiji Cama

Mumbai City, Maharashtra

Born to an extremely wealthy Parsi business family, Bhikaiji Cama (née Patel) received her early education in Bombay (now Mumbai). Influenced by an environment in which the Indian nationalist movement was taking root, she was drawn toward political issues at an early age. In 1885 she married Rustomji Cama, a well-known lawyer, but her involvement with sociopolitical issues led to differences between the couple. Because of marital problems and her poor health, which required medical attention, Cama left India for London.

It was in London that Bhikaji Cama met Dadabhai Naoroji and inspired by his ideals plunged into the freedom movement. She also began to meet with other Indian nationalists like Shyamji Varma, Lala Hardayal, and soon became one of the active members of the movement. She began to publish booklets for the Indian community in England, propagating the cause of Swaraj. “March forward! We are for India. India is for Indians!” she defiantly declared. She also toured US, where she gave speeches on the ill effects of British rule, and urged Americans to support the cause of India’s freedom.

Madam Bhikaiji Cama became the first person to hoist the Indian flag in foreign land on 22 August 1907. While unfurling the flag at the International Socialist Conference in Stuttgart, Germany, she appealed for equality and autonomy from the British which had taken over the Indian sub-continent.
General Thangal

Senapat, Manipur

General Thangal, a Naga tribal of Senapati district of Manipur. He was among the most prominent heroes of the Anglo-Manipur War 1891. During the period of Maharaja Chandrakriti Singh, he was the most powerful member of the Durbar. After the death of Maharaja Chandrakriti Singh in 1886, Yubraj Tikendrajit and General Thangal revolted in 1890 and drove out Surchandra, the reigning king and installed Kulachandra as a new ruler of Manipur. The British deputed Mr. Quinton with his associates and sent them to Manipur to ask the King to hand over Yuvraj Tikendrajit. The Anglo-Manipur War broke out on 27th April, 1891 and the British occupied Manipur after defeating the Manipuris. General Thangal surrendered to the British on 7th May 1891. He was hanged to death on 13th August 1891 at Pheida-pung, Imphal.

Ka Phan Nonglait

West Khasi Hills, Meghalaya

Ka Phan Nonglait was the early female freedom fighter from the Khasi Hills during the ear of U Tirot Singh.

Read more about Tirot Sing Syiem

Records informed that as British soldiers started to move out of Mairang village and headed for Nongkhlaw, soldiers of Tirot Sing heard the news and later set a trap for the British soldiers at Langstiehrim, as because of the heat of day the soldiers rested near the waterfall. The brave Phan Nonglait made the soldiers of Tirot Sing wait in the shadows as she provided the British soldiers who rested at the waterfall with drinks, took away all their weapons to throw under the rock hole of the fall and later lead the soldiers of U Tirot Sing. The latter captured the British soldiers easily.

A brave Polygar (feudal title) chieftain in Tamil Nadu in the 18th century, Veerapandiya

Kattabomman waged a war against the Britishers 60 years before the Indian War of Independence started in the northern part of India.

Polygars were feudal lords who were appointed as military chiefs and administrative governors since the time of the Vijayanagara Empire in parts of Southern India. They were given the charge of a group of villages, collected taxes from the peasants and in time, they almost acted as independent chieftains. When the East India Company started seizing control of the region, they came in conflict with the polygars on the question of who would collect taxes - the Company wanted to control them and secure the rights to collect taxes, as well as control territory. Kattabomman refused to give in to the British and waged a war against them. This is often called the First Polygar War of 1799.

Kattabomman was ultimately captured, sentenced to death and publicly hanged at Kayatharu in 1799. To commemorate the bicentenary of Kattabomman’s hanging, the Government of India released a postal stamp in his honour.

Bipin Bihari Bose was born in the year 1852, during the peak of the colonial hold on India. Despite this, his own sense of justice had an immense influence on his life, and those around him. This sense of justice and radical reform spurred many contributions to early conceptions of India as a unified nation. His ability to transcend the binary division about the political structure of the nation as Indian political movements gained traction, was key to his imaginings of the nation’s independent future.

Bipin Bihari spent his adult life in Lucknow where he was a known educator, advocate, political advocate, social reformer and poet. As a professional lawyer, he was known for his activism and campaigns for social reform. These ideas led him to join the Indian National Congress, a platform where he could debate with regional leaders, exchange ideas and collaborate to advocate for Indian interests. His background enabled him to become the local organizing secretary when Congress was held in Lucknow. Reflecting on his journey, Bipin Bihari published a book of poetry, called Congress Songs.

His strong sense of social justice encouraged him to campaign in order to end child marriage. He was a significant figure in the abolition of public consumption of opium. Bipin Behari’s work occurred at the grassroots level, where he rescued widows from oppressive conditions and was instrumental in their rehabilitation into society. In 1897, after seeing the destructive effects of famine, he went door-to-door asking for donations to feed the hungry.

A cornerstone of his beliefs was that the future of India lay within the next generations, thereby founding schools such as the Lucknow Hindu Girls School and youth clubs like the Bengali Young Men’s Association.

Bipin Bihari Bose passed away in the year 1902, but his contributions are everlasting.

Surendra Nath Jauhar
Jhelum, Undivided India

Surendra Nath Jauhar was born on 13 August 1903 at village Vahalee, District Jhelum, West Punjab (now in Pakistan). He had his higher education at D.A.V. College and National College, Lahore. From his student days onwards, he actively participated in the freedom movement. An entry in the official directory of freedom fighters of Delhi acclaims him as one of the prominent and fiery freedom fighters of the day. He took part in the Civil Disobedience Movement and the Quit India Movement. In 1930, he organized boycott of foreign cloth in Chandni Chowk markets. Showing exemplary courage, he read the Independence Day Resolution on 14th November 1930 at the Clock Tower, Chandni Chowk. He was arrested and sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment in the Central Jail, Multan and released in 1931 on account of the Gandhi-Irwin Pact. In 1942, he went underground and worked with Smt. Aruna Asaf Ali and Shri Jugal Kishore Khanna. He was arrested again on 17 September 1942 and tried on various accounts for about two years but was acquitted on 6 May 1944.

After independence, moving away from active politics he chose religious pursuits by joining Sri Aurobinda Ashram, Delhi. “All life is Yoga” – is the revolutionary doctrine of Sri Aurobindo. As a true follower of this doctrine, he worked tirelessly towards making the Delhi Centre what it is today. He organized disaster relief operations in the cyclone affected areas of Orissa and to earthquake victims in Gujarat. He also launched programs to expose the youth to India’s unique and great spiritual and cultural heritage. In 500 Youth and National Integration Camps organized under his leadership, more than 40,000 young people have benefited. They were also exposed to rock climbing, trekking, leadership, meditation, volunteer service, etc.

Surendra Nath Jauhar’s life was an inspiring saga of commitment to the nation, a commitment to which he devoted his entire life. The fire of the freedom fighter burnt as a study flame of zeal and devotion in the spiritual life which marked the latter phase of his life. He passed away on 2nd September 1986.

Department of Posts issued a commemorative postage stamp on Surendra Nath Jauhar in the year 2011.

Nellie Sengupta
Kolkata, West Bengal

Nellie Sengupta, was an Englishwoman who met her future husband at her parents' house in Cambridge. She relocated to India after her marriage with Jatindra Mohan Sengupta (Indian freedom fighter who actively took part in the Non-Cooperation movement in the year 1921). She was the Congress President in the year 1933.

Along with Jatindra Mohan Sengupta, she also participated in the Non-Cooperation Movement. They were both closely associated with Sarojini Naidu. She defied law by the door-to-door selling of Khadi. Under the charge of addressing an unlawful assembly, she was imprisoned for a period of four months at Delhi. Meetings were often held at her house, especially at a time when riots were taking place in many areas of the region.

She was awarded the Padma Vibhushan by the Government of India in 1973.

On behalf of the Consulate General of the Republic of South Africa, I would like to wish the IMC executives, members a Diwali that brings happiness prosperity and joy to you and all your family.

India and South Africa share a common vision on a range of global issues and domestic challenges. This includes democracy, human rights, sustainable development and challenging the prevailing global system and global financial architecture.

Bilaterally we enjoy strong economic relations that are currently driven by a Joint Ministerial Commission (JMC), which provides a solid platform to strengthen investment and bilateral trade relations between the two countries. We have seen bilateral trade increase significantly from R54bn in 2011 to R122bn in 2019.

At the government level, we continue to strengthen economic relations with India, which is aimed at advancing our industrial policy and developmental agenda. This is done through interventions and bilateral meetings with our Indian counterparts and the private sector, key sectors offering profitable economic opportunities have been identified in South Africa and the continent.

South Africa recognises India’s potential as an Investment destination, with South African companies such as FirstRand Group, Momentum and others already contributing to the Indian growth story.

Indian investment has in turn been significant, with South Africa attracting investment across numerous sectors from companies such as Tata, Wipro and Cipla. Between 2003 and 2019, Indian companies have committed to numerous Foreign Direct Investment projects. These projects represent a total investment of billions of rands and an impressive total of current and future jobs amounting to 10,660. This investment has assisted South Africa in combating the triple challenges of poverty, unemployment and economic transformation and has further contributed towards skills transfer.

To further support and facilitate investment into South Africa launched InvestSA as a division of the Department of Trade, Industry and Competition (dtic). InvestSA is a One-Stop-Shop that is ready to advise and support Indian companies on their investment into South Africa.

Numerous investment opportunities have been identified which includes local content manufacturing across various sectors such automotive and Green economy, opportunities in terms of independent power production and associated manufacturing. Further opportunities lie in the oceans economy where government has embarked on a campaign to exploit the potential of the oceans economy under a programme called Operation Phakisa, which includes aquaculture and ship repair and oil & gas.

South Africa is ready to serve as a partner and platform for doing business on the African continent and as a regional manufacturing hub. The African Continental Free Trade Agreement (ACFTA) will further support these opportunities. The ACFTA, which came into effect on 1 January 2021 aims to boost trade by harmonizing a market of 1.3bn, people in 55 countries with a GDP of US$3.4 trillion.

According to the World Bank “the agreement will lift 30 million Africans out of extreme poverty and boost the incomes of nearly 68 million others who live on less than $5.50 a day. It will further boost Africa’s income by $450 billion by 2035 (a gain of 7%) while adding $76 billion to the income of the rest of the world and increase Africa’s exports by $560 billion, mostly in manufacturing.”

The agreement presents an opportunity for Africa to ramp up its manufacturing sector and has the potential to lift 68 million people out of moderate poverty.

I would also like to extend an open invitation for IMC executives and members to visit the South African Pavilion at the Dubai EXPO 2020 and encourage all those not travelling to join virtually.

During November, the South African Pavilion will focus on highlighting economic opportunities in trade and investment with sector specific sessions and B2B meetings held daily. We would like to encourage you to register for the Trade and Investment Month activation on our event platform where a-recorded session will be streamed from November 1 onwards.

Registration Link: https://lnkd.in/dkjZQVva

Once you have registered, you can enter the Pavilion. There are various meeting and talks happening from November 1. The inaugural address and opening by the Minister of Trade Industry and Competition, Minister Ebrahim Patel was held on November 1.

Complexities and Issues under New Dividend Taxation Regime

CA Pranay Gandhi

1. Background on taxation of dividends in India:

1.1 Dividends constitute a significant stream of income for shareholders of companies. Double taxation of income – first, in the hands of the companies and thereafter in the hands of the shareholders on distribution as dividend is prevalent worldwide. The manner in which dividend income is taxed in India has undergone several changes over the years.

1.2 Till, 1st June 1997, the dividend distributed by domestic company was liable to tax in the hands of shareholders at applicable tax rates. The company distributing the dividend, was liable to withhold tax on the same, if payment exceeds Rs.2,500. By amendment in Finance Act, 1997, Dividend Distribution Tax (‘DDT’) was introduced. As mentioned in the Explanatory Memorandum, DDT was introduced to ease the compliance of withholding tax and reducing the paperwork for Companies as well the Shareholders. DDT at the rate of 10% (plus applicable surcharge) was made applicable on dividend distributed by a company from 1 June 1997. The purpose of levy of DDT was to ensure that tax on dividend is captured at source itself.

1.3 Finance Act, 2002 scrapped the DDT w.e.f. 1 April 2002 (AY 2003-04) and again dividend was made taxable in the hands of shareholders subject to certain deductions provided in the Act.

1.4 However, Finance Act, 2003, re-introduced DDT w.e.f. AY 2004-05. However, the rate of DDT was increased to 12.5% (plus applicable surcharge and cess)

1.5 By way of amendment in Finance Act, 2020, India re-introduced the classical system of taxing dividends in the hands of the shareholders as was prevalent in the past. The Hon’ble Finance Minister in her Budget Speech stated that the removal of DDT will lead to an estimated annual revenue foregone of Rs 25,000 crore. However, higher personal and corporate tax collections on account of taxation of dividend in the hands of shareholders will compensate the loss on account of DDT.

1.6 While DDT regime had the advantage of ease of tax collection at time of declaration of dividend by company, it significantly increased the cost of doing business in India; especially for foreign investors, as there were issues on availing credit of DDT in their home jurisdiction (given that DDT was a tax on the company and not on the shareholders) and thereby leading to double taxation in many cases. The effective DDT rate of 20.56% was also significantly higher than the maximum rate at which India would have had the right to collect tax under most of the relevant Double Taxation avoidance agreements (DTAA).

2. Impact of new Dividend tax regime in hands of Resident Shareholders:

2.1 Individuals and HUF:
Dividend income earned by resident shareholders being individuals and HUFs will now be taxable in their hands at the slab rates applicable to them. However, the maximum surcharge on dividends would be restricted to 15%. Thus, the dividend income will be taxable at a maximum effective rate of 35.88% for shareholders whose total income exceeds Rs. 1 crore.

2.2 Partnership Firms & Limited Liability Partnerships (LLPs):
Dividend income earned by partnership firms and LLPs from domestic companies will be taxable at an effective tax rate of 35.88% for shareholders being individuals and HUFs whose total income exceeds Rs. 1 crore.

2.3 Domestic Companies:
Dividend income earned by Domestic Companies will be taxable as under:

The dividend income, however, will also be subjected to Minimum Alternate Tax (‘MAT’), at 17.47% only for companies who have not opted for concessional tax regime.

2.4 Tax Deduction at Source (“TDS”) u/s 194 of the Act:

A company paying dividends to resident shareholders is required to deduct tax at 10% (Lower rate of 7.5% where dividend is declared upto 31 March 2021 as per Ordinance issued on account of Covid 19), where dividend paid exceeds Rs.5,000 in a year. However, if the resident shareholder fails to submit his Permanent Account Number, the TDS would be deducted at a higher rate of 20%. If Individual Resident shareholder provides declaration in Form15G/15H, no TDS would be deducted by Company. Further, the resident shareholder can also approach the tax authorities for obtaining a lower withholding tax certificate if he believes that the TDS should be lower than 10%.

2.5 Impact of new Dividend tax regime in hands of Non-Resident Shareholders:

Rate of Tax:

3.1 The dividend income, in the hands of a non-resident person (including FPIs and nonresident Indian citizens (NRIs)), is taxable at the rate of 20% without providing for deduction under any provisions of the Income-tax Act. However, dividend income of an investment division of an offshore banking unit shall be taxable at the rate of 10%.

3.2 Further, where the dividend is received in respect of GDRs of an Indian Company or Public Sector Company (PSU) purchased in foreign currency, the tax shall be charged at the rate of 10% without providing for any deductions. The rates of tax applicable to non-residents is tabulated below

TDS provisions applicable on dividend distributed to non-resident shareholder:

3.3 Where the dividend is distributed to a non-resident shareholder, the tax shall be required to be deducted as per section 195 of the Income-tax Act. As per section 195, the withholding tax rate on dividend shall be as specified in the Finance Act of the relevant year or under DTAA, whichever is applicable in case of an assessee.
3.4 However, where the dividend is distributed or paid in respect of GDRs of an Indian Company or Public Sector Company (PSU) purchased in foreign currency or to Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPIs), the tax shall be required to deducted as per section 196C and section 196D at 10% and 20%, respectively.

*If the withholding tax rate as per Double Taxation avoidance agreement (DTAA) is lower than the rate prescribed under the Finance Act then tax shall be deducted at the rate prescribed under DTAA.

Applicability of Treaty Rates:

3.6 Dividend income is generally chargeable to tax in the source country as well as the country of residence of the assessee and, consequently, country of residence provides a credit of taxes paid by the assessee in the source country. Thus, the dividend income shall be taxable in India as per provisions of the Act or as per relevant DTAA, whichever is more beneficial.

3.7 As per most of the DTAs, India has entered into with foreign countries, the dividend the dividend is payable to a company which holds specific percentage (generally 25%) of shares of the company paying the dividend. However, no minimum time limit has been prescribed in these DTAs for which such shareholding should be maintained by the recipient company. An illustrative list of jurisdictions where the dividend is taxable at a lower rate than the DDT rate as per the provisions of the Act is provided as under:

In addition to a & b above, MLJ also provides for a provision for a minimum shareholding period of 365 days, in order to avail DTAA benefits; and

d. The transaction is not hit by the provisions of General Anti-avoidance Rule (“GAAR”) provisions.

3.10 It is to be noted that Hon’ble Delhi High Court in case of Concentrix Services Netherlands BV (434 ITR 0516 (Delhi)) dated 22 April 2021 and in case Nestle SA [WP(C) 3243/2021), has upheld the applicability of MFN clause while applying DTAA rates for purposes of withholding taxes at lower rates on Dividend income received by Foreign Companies from Indian Companies.

4. Deduction for expenses incurred for earning dividend income:

4.1. Given that the dividend income is now taxable in the hands of the shareholders, the controversy surrounding several issues on disallowances of expenditure under section 14A of the Act to earn dividend income (which was earlier exempt) no longer survives.

4.2. However, the Finance Act, 2020 has made amendment under section 57 of the Act, providing that no other expenses other than interest shall be allowed as a deduction from dividend income. Further, allowance of interest expense shall be restricted to 20% of dividend income which is included in the total income of a resident shareholder. It may be noted that no such interest deduction is allowable to non-resident shareholders.

4.3. Dividends received from a foreign company wherein Indian Company holds more than 26% of shares is taxable at 15% under section 115BBD of the Act. However, in computing such dividend income no deduction for any expenditure (including interest expenditure) or allowance is allowable.

5. Inter corporate dividends (Section 80M):

5.1. For removing the cascading effect of taxation in a multi-tier holding structure, a rollover benefit for dividend income is permitted in respect of dividend received by Indian Company from another Indian company, foreign company or business trust. The amount of dividend received shall be allowed as deduction, if such amount is distributed as dividend on a before the due date.

- Due date means the date one month prior to the date for furnishing the return of income under section 139(1) of the Act

- No condition of maintaining or fulfilling the sequence of receipt on onward distribution

- The Act requires amount to be distributed to the shareholders, before the due date, mere declaration on a before the due date may not make company eligible to claim deduction under section 80M of the Act. Reliance could be placed on the Hon'ble Supreme Court’s decision in the case of Punjab Distilling Industries Limited.
(57 ITR 1), wherein the term ‘distribution’ is explained as Actual/ constructive payment by way of journal entries, in which liability is acknowledged towards shareholders.

5.3. The same is pictorially depicted below:

In the example, Company C distributes Rs 1000 as dividend to Company B Co, which in turn distributes Rs.800 as dividend to Company A. To avoid the cascading effect of taxation of the same dividend income, Section 80M permits a deduction of Rs 800 in the computation of income of Company B provided Company B has upstreamed the dividend income to Company A at least 1 month before the due date of filing its tax return of the year in which the dividend was received. In such a case, Company B will be taxed only on the net dividend income of Rs. 200. It may be noted that such deduction is allowed irrespective of the percentage of shareholding in Company C and regardless of whether Company C is a domestic company or a foreign company.

5.4. Eligibility of deduction under section 80M of the Act may be seen vis-à-vis dividend income accrual under section 8 such that it forms part of Gross Total Income. Actual receipt may not be necessary.

a. Dividend income shall be deemed to be the income of the financial year in which it is declared/ distributed/ paid;

b. Interim dividend shall be deemed to be the income of the financial year in which the amount of such dividend is unconditionally made available by the company to the member.

6. Key issues under new dividend taxation regime:

6.1. Dividend income – Income from Other sources or Business income?

- Since section 56 of the Act, specifically covers section 56, within its ambit, dividend income will be taxable under the head Income from other sources (IFOS), irrespective of the fact whether the investment in shares in classified under stock in trade or treated as capital asset.

- As per section 57 of the Act, deduction shall not be allowed of any expense (other than interest expense), exceeding 20% of dividend income – there could be possibility that, interest expense will not be allowable as deduction in the absence of dividend income.

- Though the dividend income is taxable as IFOS, where investment is made in an Investee company to acquire the controlling interest, the deductibility of the interest expenditure may be looked into citing specific facts of the case.

- It may be noted that if dividend taxation takes place under the scheme of MAT, then the expense deduction would be governed by the provisions of section 115JB and any restrictions under the head PGBP/ section 57 (including proviso) may not apply.

6.2. How allowable Interest expenses to be computed (Net vs Gross)?

Continuing with our previous example, assuming Company B has an interest expenditure of Rs. 200, will the entirety of the interest expenditure be allowed as a deduction by applying the 20% test on gross dividend income of Rs.1000 which is earned by Company B – or will the deductibility of interest expenditure be limited to 20% of the net dividend income of Rs. 200 and hence only Rs.40 would qualify for interest deduction? The said issue remains an open point of interpretation for the tax officer to determine in view of wordings of section 80M and amended provisions of Section 57 of the Act.

6.3. Interplay of dividend income from a foreign company taxable at the concessional tax rate under section 115BBD, deduction under section 80M of the Act and Foreign tax credit

F CO is a specified foreign company (in which I Co’s shareholding is more or equal to 26%), Dividend income of I Co 1 from F Co will be taxable as per the beneficial provisions of section 115BBD of the Act.

- As per section 80M of the Act, that the deduction will be available to the extent, the dividend amount received which is included in gross total income. Section does not distinguish/ prioritize distribution of dividend from Foreign Company/ Indian Company

- It may be possible to take Beneficial allocation by the 1 Co 1 which has dividend income from specified foreign company (which is taxable at concessional rate of 15%) and another Indian company.
- Amount distributed can first be set off against, the Indian dividend income and the balance can be subjected to tax as per the beneficial provisions of section 115BBD of the Act.

- I CO 1 may not claim Foreign Tax Credit of taxes paid outside India, when the entire dividend income included in Gross Total Income is claimed as deduction under section 80M of the Act. Such income may not be considered as a doubly taxed income.
- In case where the entire amount of dividend income is not upstreamed/ onward paid, then FTC can be claimed against the balance taxable income.

6.4. DDT regime - Tax treaty provisions - Interplay between DDT rate and Treaty rate for pre-DDT abolition regime

- For years prior to 1 April 2020, some Indian Companies wherein there were non-resident shareholder(s) have contended before the Tax authorities that in view of the fact that “DDT” is a “Tax of dividend” (in view of decision of Tata Tea Co Ltd (85 taxmann 346) dated 20 September 2017) and hence, the DDT should be restricted to beneficial DTAA rates.

- In this regard, Hon’ble Delhi Tribunal in the case of Giesecke & Devrient (India) Pvt Ltd (120 taxmann.com 338) and Hon’ble Kolkata Tribunal in case of Indian Oil Petronas Pvt Ltd (127 Taxmann.com 389) have in principle accepted this contention and have restricted the DDT rate to beneficial rates as per DTAA. Accordingly, the excess DDT paid (over and above the lower DTAA rate) will now be refunded to the Indian companies.

- However, recently, Hon’ble Mumbai Tribunal in case of Total Oil India Pvt Ltd (ITA 6997/M/2019) dated 23 June 2021 has doubted the correctness of applicability of DTAA rates to DDT and referred the matter to Special Bench, however, no update is there on the constitution of the same till date.

- Accordingly, taxpayers looking at the scenario may adopt a position before tax authorities, whether to claim refund of DDT paid in excess of DTAA rates.

7. TDS compliance for companies

7.1. There are several benefits of the classical system of taxing dividends, however it brings along a host of compliances and other factors which a Indian Companies paying dividends needs to consider.

7.2. For eg. A listed company may have thousands of non-resident shareholders and therefore for determining TDS to be deducted u/s 195, the company will have to determine and obtain proof of residency as on date of declaring dividend and would also have to collect declarations in relation to beneficial ownership and PPT criteria for determining TDS rate (Act vs Treaty). Further, non-compliance would lead to additional tax and interest liabilities including penal consequences as Tax department will be scrutinizing the Lower TDS in a greater detail.

7.3. Also, it is going to increase the compliance burden and the related paperwork substantially. As per the current law, any payment to a non-resident needs to be reported in Form 15CA. In addition to Form 15CA, the company is also required to obtain a Chartered Accountant’s certificate in Form 15CB if the payments made during the year exceeds INR 5 lakhs. The company may need to exercise its judgement on whether the payment to a particular shareholder will exceed INR 5 lakhs in a year and thereafter decide on filing of Form 15CB.

8. TDS compliance for companies

9. Conclusion:

8.1. The abolition of the DDT regime and re-introduction of the classical system marks a paradigm shift in the taxation of dividends in India. From a compliance perspective, the process will become time-consuming and cumbersome, which needs simplification.
The increasing volume of compliance, together with strict timelines, may lead many Indian companies to replace traditional methods with advanced technology-enabled tax tools for undertaking tax compliance in India.

8.2. However, since earlier DDT used to be a sunk cost for the shareholders, the new regime will be beneficial in most cases for non-resident investors as TDS deducted will now be creditable in their home country due to the shift in incidence of tax from the company to the shareholder. Further, the benefits granted by several of the DTAs in terms of lower tax rate would assume significant importance and can go a long way in reducing the cost of doing business in India. Of course, the aspects pertaining to treaty eligibility, satisfaction of test of PPT and beneficial ownership, applicability of GAAR, etc. would need to be thoroughly examined.

8.3. Accordingly, this shift is likely to have beneficial impact to resident in light of reduction of litigation revolving around section 14A of the Act and beneficial to non-resident shareholders as it will enable them to take appropriate actions to achieve overall tax efficiency.

Given the re-introduction of the classical system of taxing dividends coupled with reduced corporate tax regimes introduced in 2019, India certainly has emerged as an attractive destination for foreign investors.

IMC Journal  September-October 2021 29

Smt. Nirmala Sitharaman
Hon’ble Union Minister for Finance
Ministry of Finance
Room No. 134, North Block
New Delhi 110 001

Respected Smt. Nirmala Sitharamanji,

Sub: Pre-Budget Memorandum – 2022-23 – Direct Tax

Warm Greetings.

At the outset, IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry records its appreciation of the efforts taken by present Government in managing the economic slowdown and COVID pandemic. The steps taken by government in dealing with the situation are very well appreciated by trade and industry.

With a view to further boost the economy and to assist for the businesses to come out of the current situation, IMC has enclosed a detailed representation in connection with ongoing budgetary exercise being undertaken by the Government.

We would like to make the following broad points as a preface to our detailed recommendations:

1. Stability of tax laws and simplification of tax rate structure: Whilst the recent changes in tax rates are greatly appreciated by business, multiple rates for corporates, non-corporates and individuals has made the rate structure extremely complex. IMC has always recommended (and now more so in view of economic slow-down) that there is need to have stable tax laws and that no changes should be made for reasonable period of 5 years or so. We are also of the view that there is need to give further relief in the tax rates to non-corporates and individuals for them to come out of economic slow-down.

2. Retroactive amendments vide Finance Act 2021 be made prospective:

Vide Finance Act 2021, provisions (Sections 9B, 45(iv) and 48(55) ) to deal with Depreciation on Goodwill (Sections 32,50,55) reconstitution of firms and Shrug-sale (Section 50B) were amended retroactively from AY 2021-22 i.e. applicable for transactions w.e.f from 1 April 2020. This has seriously impeded commercial calculations of transactions which were already entered into in AY 2021-22 based on the old provisions. Also, these amendments were brought in at the time of passing the Finance Act 2021 thus giving no time for public discussion or representation. It also has shaken investor confidence and sentiments as it is contrary to the Government’s commitment to not make any retrospective amendments.

While addressing the Rajya Sabha during the discussion on The Taxation Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2021, which completely removed the retrospective effect of the indirect transfer provisions that were introduced in 2012, you had mentioned that “I seek the support of the house to make India look a very clear, transparent and fair taxation and therefore this whole thing about retrospective amendment which was brought in and since then we’ve been hearing the negativity of this all over the world.” You had further mentioned that “we take our laws seriously, particularly the tax related laws. We want to be sure that there is a consistency. And without consistency in your taxation, obviously businesses are not going to be able to go forward.”

In view of the above categorical assurance, we request you to kindly make those amendments prospective and not retro-active.

3. Ease of doing business: IMC supports Government’s initiatives towards enhancing significantly Ease of Doing Business with a view to attract foreign investments. In this regard, we bring to your notice that:

i). It has been the experience of the trade and industry that the plethora of compliance requirements and penal consequences for smallest of breaches or non-compliance is hampering sentiments and businesses. The complexities involved in Tax Deduction and Collection at Source provisions as well as difficulties in obtaining Tax Credit (Central Processing Centre (‘CPC’), without any redressal mechanism has made the taxpayers run from pillar to post to get the same corrected. It is necessary to reduce compliance burden on the taxpayers so as to allow them to concentrate on reviving of business than spending time on regulatory compliances. To that end, we suggest an out-of-box win-win solution after deliberations with select taxpayers. An option be provided, initially to the large corporates and later slowly extending to other Taxpayers, of opting out of TDS and TCS compliances, if they agree to pay Advance Tax on a monthly basis. This one step will help the eligible taxpayers of doing away with almost 50 TDS and TCS rates (with the latest ones having broad applicability) and attendant compliances and penal measures. Government revenue will at the same time not suffer on account of these taxpayers making Advance Tax payment on a monthly basis. Thus, we sincerely believe, it would be a game-changer initiating result in a great push to Ease of Doing Business for all stakeholders.

ii). Outlier provisions/ Specific Anti Avoidance Rules should be diluted as there are enough checks and balances to control misuse of tax incentives and provisions in form of GAAR, etc.

iii). Implement the pro-taxpayer recommendations of Expert Committees – Government had formed various committees like Tax Administration Reform Commission under Chairmanship of Dr. Shome, Income-tax Simplification Committee under Chairmanship of Justice R.V Easwar (Retd.) and Committee of Experts headed by then CBDT member Mr. Akhilesh Ranjan. We believe that very valuable and important suggestions were made by these Committees (unfortunately, many of the recommendations/ reports were not made public). Looking to their extensive deliberations, recommendations made by these Committees must be considered for implementation especially the ones which were pro-taxpayers and for easing of doing business. Unfortunately the impression in the tax paying community seems to be that only those recommendations which are in favour of revenue generation have been implemented.

4. Dispute Resolution mechanism: As committed by Government under BEPs Action Plan 14, it is necessary for Government to not only to bring in effective Dispute Resolution Mechanism in Tax Laws and also to ensure that they function smoothly. Peer Review should be done by experts to consider the efficacy of Dispute Resolution Mechanism on regular basis. Simultaneously with the introduction of faceless appeals, the Government should introduce a mechanism to ensure that the first appellate authority (i.e. Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals) and Dispute Resolution Panel function in a judicious manner and not function as merely an approving authority based on Risk Parameters or positions taken by CBDT especially in respect of certain important issues.

5. Revival of SEZ window:

Recently, the UK Government has restarted its tax-free incentives to boost its economy. The Indian Government should also act on the same lines and reinstate the SEZ window for next 10-15 years.

Our detailed recommendations enclosed herewith for specific amendments have been bucketed into 3 segments:

A. Category I - Key issues hampering the businesses and taxpayers which require immediate action;
B. Category II - Rationalisation of provisions for facilitating a taxpayer friendly regime and reducing litigation; and
C. Category III - Other suggestions in connection with reducing burden in Business Restructuring and building investor confidence.

We have made these suggestions keeping in mind the Present Government’s Motto of ‘ease of doing business’, ‘reducing litigation’, ‘tax friendly atmosphere’, ‘non-adversarial regime’ and ‘simplification of tax laws’, which would enable to reboot the economy by building greater investors’ confidence.

We would be happy to clarify any concerns of the Government on these issues and trust our recommendations would be considered favourably.

With regards,

Juzar Khorakiwala

Shri J B Mohapatra
Chairman
Central Board of Direct Taxes
Department of Revenue, Ministry of Finance
Room No. 150, North Block
New Delhi – 110 001

Dear Sir,

Subject: Representation on compliance burden being faced by MSMEs and the urgent need to create “Ease of Doing Business”

At the outset, the Chamber appreciates the efforts of the Government in dealing with the Covid crisis faced by the economy through various policy interventions.

As you are aware, the Business entities have been subjected to an enormously increased compliance burden by the Finance Act, 2021 with 50 plus TDS/TCS rates and added burden of checking non-filers, etc.

The TDS and TCS requirements and the penal provisions connected therewith have been broadening every year. This has added a huge compliance burden for the taxpayers, in particular the MSMEs. What is worse is that while an assessee who withholds tax is essentially acting (without any remuneration) as an agent of the Government and facilitating the tax collection on behalf of the Government, he is exposed to serious penal provisions if there is any lapse on his part. This seems to be clearly unfair.

Moreover, the MSMEs are already struggling with Covid and its aftermath. Pursuant to the added compliance burden and no relaxation in the penal consequences of non-compliance or delayed compliances, the taxpayers are unluckily penalised, further impeding their own businesses.

Facilitating Ease of Doing Business has been the stated policy of the present government. Honourable Prime Minister Narendra Modi said “India is fully committed to give its youth ease of doing business so that the youth through their innovation can bring about a change in the lives of crores of people of the country.” Present Government’s manifesto also states: “Targeting time spent for tax compliance at 1 hour per month”. However, unfortunately, this broadening of the scope of TDS and TCS provisions and switch from TCS to TDS etc. and that too from immediate effect without any guidance or clarification, has, in fact, made it extremely difficult and cumbersome for an assessee to do business in India.

The IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry held a Survey among its members to assess the views of the MSME and the tax practitioners in respect of the above changes in TDS and TCS provisions.

Based on the response received to this Survey, in the representation enclosed as Appendix, we endeavour to bring to light several issues and compliance burdens being faced by the MSMEs. These difficulties have seriously hampered their ability to operate businesses in an efficient manner, eventually impacting their growth and further, due to complexities in the provisions and lack of guidance/FAQs from CBDT etc., there are more defaults even though the taxpayers are trying to comply with it. As you are well aware, MSMEs are the backbone of the Indian economy by virtue of their contribution to GDP amounting to around 30%, around 45% contribution to India’s exports and employment of about 12 crore people.

We request your goodself to kindly consider the several issues highlighted in the attached representation and to take the needful actions urgently to ensure that the taxpayers, especially MSMEs, do not continue to suffer.

With regards,

Juzar Khorakiwala

Shri Subhash Desai
Hon’ble Minister of Industries and Mining
Government of Maharashtra, 4th Floor, Main Building, Mantralaya, Mumbai – 400 032

Respected Shri Subhash Desai ji,

Sub: Representation on issues faced by Bulk Drug Industry in Maharashtra

I extend warm greetings from the IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

We appreciate the efforts taken by the Government of Maharashtra for the Bulk Drug Industry in the state like the Bulk Drug Park project at Raigad with incentive schemes.

Under IMC Engage Maharashtra initiative we had organized Engage Maharashtra: Reboot, Reform, Resurge Roundtable Conference on August 5, 2021 with support from the Industry Department of Maharashtra Government. At this Roundtable, one of the panel discussions was on “Setting up of Bulk Drug and Medical Devices Manufacturing.”

During the above panel discussion, several issues faced by the industry and the suggestions to address the issues were highlighted. Our members associated with the Bulk Drug Industry in the state have also approached us with the issues faced by the Bulk Drug Industry with suggestions for consideration that could help the growth of the industry and once again make Maharashtra an attractive destination for bulk drug manufacturing.

We would like to humbly submit below the issues with suggestions for your kind consideration.

Bulk drugs are the active pharma ingredients (API), main content of the medicines. Until the 1980s Maharashtra had the largest number of API manufacturing companies in India generating very significant revenue and employment in the state. Unfortunately, as of today most APIs are sourced from China and the smaller fraction that is made in India is primarily made in Gujarat or Telangana +Andhra. In fact in the peak of Covid, Maharashtra, FDA sent an SOS message to all API units in Maharashtra to ask for ramping up production of the anti-covid API Remdesivir and to their surprise it turned out that there was no manufacturer in the entire state!
Following are some suggestions to support existing API units in Maharashtra and encourage setup of new API units in the State:

A. Expand / Upgrade Common Effluent Facilities

Problem: Effluent treatment is now almost 20% of production cost of many APIs. Unfortunately, Bulk Drug Companies in Maharashtra are not cost-competitive because effluent treatment costs are much higher than in other states. At present in most areas in Maharashtra, individual units are required to treat effluent in-house to the same level as the discharge norms of CETPs, thereby making the CETPs redundant. This is not the case in other states, Gujarat and Telangana /Andhra, where each CETP has defined inlet parameters based on their capacity.

Solutions:

1. Upgrade / Repair / properly maintain CETPs all across the state so they can uniformly accept higher COD effluent and are able to treat it as per their capacity.
2. In order to do this, MIDC should have individual meetings with each Industrial Area and ask the member industries what their requirements are for treatment. Then based on this requirement the CETP can be upgraded using Public or Private Funds.
3. In addition to regular CETPs, promote the setup of private/public highly specialized CETPs that can accept very high COD (>1,00,000 ppm) just like they have in Ankleshwar, Gujarat and Ramkey City, Vizag. One Company Detox promoted by a French water treatment multinational that is already successfully operating a high COD treatment plant in Ankleshwar has expressed interest and has adequate funds for expanding to Maharashtra. Unfortunately, for the last 3 years the project is unable to move forward due to bureaucratic paperwork. The company has even got land allotted by MIDC in additional Patalganga, but then the project is stalled at the level of MPCB permissions. Not only does Maharashtra need one such plant, but it needs multiple. In fact it would be good to encourage such private players with open arms to set up in the state so they can offer competitive rates. For example, in terms of monopoly, as on today for Solid Waste there is only one private player in Talegaon, and so their rates are almost 100% higher than what the rates are in other states where there is competition. Specifically due to restriction of transport of Solid Waste across state borders, all Industrial Zones around 200 km of Mumbai region are facing higher production costs and hence, considering moving to other states.
4. Encourage recycling and alternate use of solid waste, such as use in cement factories which is successfully being implemented in Gujarat by GPCB with simple notification procedure.

B. Allow flexibility in Production without elaborate permission / application procedure

Problem: In order for Bulk Companies to change anything in the Consent issued by MPCB for products currently produced, it is a very cumbersome procedure with permissions taking >1 year + the hiring of expensive consultants. Seeing the need of the hour, earlier this year, at the central level, MoEF & CC has issued a welcome notification that no prior permission is required for a Bulk Drug factory to change its product mix or increase its production capacity or purchase new machinery – as long as the changes are within the previously sanctioned total pollution load. Unfortunately, while this is a very welcome policy change, it is not yet implemented for additional permissions issued at the state level, and so in reality there is no benefit to individual manufacturing units.

Solution:

1. Maharashtra should take the lead in implementing this policy at the ground level, which will encourage Industry to move back to the state. Meetings should be arranged with the State Environment Ministry and MPCB to figure out how this can be implemented with immediate effect in the state to provide much needed relief to manufacturers.

Benefits for the state:

1. It will attract foreign direct investment in the state
2. It will reduce the dependency on other states or countries for raw material for pharma Industry
3. It will help to attract other related industries in the state
4. Proper solid waste management in the state will reduce the production cost of manufactures
5. Recycling and alternate use of Solid Waste will help to reduce the industrial pollution in the state specifically in MIDC Industrial areas.
6. Implementation of notification by Central Government about ‘no prior permission required for Bulk Drug Factory to change its production mix or increase its production capacity or purchase of New Machinery’ will help to reduce time for setup and will make the procedure simpler & cost effective. This will ultimately help in ease of doing business in the state.
7. API units may come back in the state which will also help to create job opportunities.
8. The competition will help to reduce the cost and increase the quality of products

We request you to grant us an appointment to meet with you to explain the issues and suggestions in greater detail and provide response to the questions that you may have in this regard, at the date and time convenient to you this week or next week.

We look forward to your favourable response to our request for a meeting.

With warm regards,

Juzar Khorakiwala

Re: RoDTEP scheme to incentivise exports

IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry (IMC) welcomes the move of the Remission of Duties and Taxes on Exported Products (RoDTEP) Scheme and would like to congratulate you for announcing such an innovative and more WTO-compatible scheme to replace Merchandise Exports from India Scheme (MIES) which was challenged in WTO.

The associations affiliated to IMC and its exporter members have also generally welcomed the initiative of the Government of India but they have also communicated that many products out of total products notified in for the RoDTEP scheme in August have either not included some key products or the duty benefit rates under RoDTEP have been reduced or no to the expectation of the Industry.

For example:

- Rates for Manufacturing Engineering Products and Components under Chapter 84 have been reduced from 2% to 1%. Request to increase RoDTEP to 3%.
- Stainless Steel products and components under chapter 72 & 73 constitute a very high volume of exports. Items in chapter 72 & 73 are totally eliminated in the RoDTAP tariff list. Request that products under chapter 72 & 73 may get 2% RoDTEP or at least a minimum of 1%
- The remission rates for handicrafts in RoDTEP are in the 0.01-2.4% range. The Handicraft industry expected remission rates for handicraft exports between 5-7% under the RoDTEP scheme, similar to the incentives they received in the erstwhile Merchandise Export from India Scheme (MEIS). Request to increase RoDTEP to 5%, or at least a minimum of 1%

The schemes such as MEIS and RoDTEP are always considered while making costing for export markets and sudden elimination of rebate or reduction of rates makes exports of affected products uncompetitive resulting in exports being affected adversely. At a time when the thrust of the government is rightly on Make in India and increasing exports, such a move would make the stated objectives difficult to achieve.

We, therefore, humbly request you consider our request positively.

With kind regards,

Juzar Khorakiwala
President-IMC
IMC Sr. Management Team met with Invest India team to discuss engagements for the upcoming Expo 2020 at Dubai – September 21, 2021
Speaking at the 115th Foundation Day Celebrations of IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry on September 7, Mrs. Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Executive Chairperson, Biocon and Biocon Biologics said that organisations have been adjusting their values and purpose statements, with millennials keen on working for firms that stand for something. “Workplaces are becoming more inclusive to reflect social diversity.” She was delivering Foundation Day Address on Capitalism to Compassionate Capitalism.

Talking about the subject, Mrs. Shaw said that the corporate world has been changing rapidly, and the traditional model of profit driven capitalism was certainly no longer fashionable, making way for the idea of tackling compassionate capitalism. “Focus of business has now shifted to building a durable foundation for sustainable social development,” she emphasized.

Complimenting IMC for completing 114 years of rich legacy since it’s inception on September 07, 1907 by few Indian Merchants, who came together to establish a Swadeshi institution to fight for the rights of the swadeshi businesses, Mrs. Mazumdar-Shaw added that corporate social responsibility (CSR) and Environment, Social and Governance (ESG) factors are an important part of corporate thinking today with many organization talking about a triple bottomline — financial, social and environmental results.

Further she added “ Compassionate capitalism uses proven business strategies to build a durable foundation for sustainable social development. When innovation and commerce are used to drive social progress the implementation is a lot cheaper, many more people benefit, and the effect is longer lasting. While welcoming the Chief Guest, IMC President, Mr. Juzar Khorakiwala said “Although the compassionate capitalism has been in public discourse globally for quite some time, the Covid crisis has accentuated the need to think about changing the narrative and practice of capitalism the world followed. In fact, corporations across the world, including India Inc, have already adopted the practice of putting purpose before profit.”
Kharif 2021 Crop Outlook

IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry in association with NCDEX IPFT organized an Online Seminar on Kharif 2021 Crop Outlook: Linking the dependency of Indian Agriculture on Monsoon & the Role of Commodities Derivatives Segment on September 17, 2021 at 4.00pm.

In his welcome address IMC-Vice President Mr. Juzar Khorakiwala stated that, in the long-run, growth in the agriculture sector will ensure India’s food security and supply chain in a self-sufficient manner and will also contribute to the vision of ‘Aatmnirbhar Bharat’ or ‘Self-reliant’ India.

A panel of experts Mr. G. Chandrashekhar, Economic Advisor, IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Air Vice Marshal G P Sharma (retd), President, Meteorology and Climate Change, Skymet Weather Services Ltd Mr. Suresh Devnani, Chief Business Officer, Samunnati Agro Solutions Pvt Ltd and Mr. Aleen Mukherjee, COO, NICR and EVP NCDEX discussed on distribution of SW monsoon across countries, outlook for major Kharif season crops and steps that would boost output and prices.

Expert speakers analysed the Kharif 2021-22 production targets and were of the view that harvests would be good due to satisfactory monsoon. Technology infusion and capacity building among growers would boost the farm sector, according to experts who added that agri startups continue to explore delivery of benefits to growers and better social, economic and environmental outcomes.

According to speaker’s many uncertainties are observed in Indian agriculture. Farmers are the biggest risk taker. They go through product risk, quality risk, market risk, policy risk etc that converge to one factor i.e Price. Therefore, management of price risk is a key component of farm marketing strategy. Horizontal integration of various service providers to create a comprehensive flow of goods and services to the farm sector was advocated.

The seminar ended with the vote of thanks by Mr Aashish Barwale, Chairman, Agriculture & Food Processing Committee.

Explaining Factoring Act and Introduction to TReDS for NBFCs & MSMEs by RXIL

With the amendment to the Factoring Regulation (Amendment) Bill 2020, RBI registered NBFCs would be eligible to undertake factoring business and participate as the Financiers on TReDS platform, once the TReDS guidelines are suitably amended by RBI.

IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry (IMC) and Finance Industry Development Council (FIDC) in collaboration with Receivables Exchange of India Ltd. (RXIL) have organized the Webinar on Explaining Factoring Act and Introduction to TReDS for NBFCs & MSMEs on October 06, 2021.

TReDS is an electronic platform for facilitating the financing/discounting of Trade Receivables of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) through multiple financiers. These receivables can be due from corporate and other buyers, including Government Departments and Public Sector Undertakings (PSUs).

In his introductory remarks, Mr. K V Srinivasan, Co-Chairman, IMC’s NBFC Committee, and Director & CEO, Profectus Capital Pvt Ltd. said that the Exchange is one of its first kinds in terms of the mechanism. The one of the biggest issues facing by the MSMEs that they doesn’t get payments on time, therefore, their cash flow cycle gets elongated beyond usual where they running to cash flow problem and mismatches throughout their journey. He opined that the Trade is wonderful platform which seeks to address this particular issue whereby MSMEs are in a position to liquidate their receivables very quickly for a small prize. The real beauty of this platform is (i) to organise otherwise unorganized receivable market very well. (ii) The mechanism is basically enjoying the larger companies to whom the MSMEs supply the goods to exercise greater disciplines on their payables. Any default which happens on trade platform is actually treated as credit default by the larger entity, therefore, from the lenders perspective they are able to take a MSME exposure with the risk of large company exposure.

The trade is based on bidding, the borrower (beneficiary) always able to get the best prize on offer. With the entry of NBFCs being permitted after the factoring act has been amended the huge amount of action going forward he said.

Mr. Roshan Singh, Head Financial Institutions, RXIL was highlighted following key points on the Factoring Regulation Bill 2020 in his presentation.

- Section 2 “Definitions” now include TReDS – “Trade Receivables Discounting System” means a payment system authorised by the Reserve Bank of India under section 7 of the Payment and Settlement Systems Act, 2007 for the purpose of facilitating financing of trade receivables

- NBFCs other than NBFC factors will be allowed as financiers - The widening of scope of financiers by permitting NBFCs would possibly lead to discounting of invoices of lower rated buyers on TReDS platform as NBFCs form an important source of MSME financing.

- Automatic filing of charges with CERSAI – The new bill will facilitate TReDS to file the charges on behalf of financiers by integrating with CERSAI and enabling automated straight-through processing without any manual intervention.

- RBI to make regulations: The Bill empowers RBI to make regulations for: (i) the manner of granting registration certificates to a factor, (ii) the manner of filing of transaction details with the Central Registry for transactions done through the TReDS, and (iii) any other matter as required.

RXIL was launched under the milestone RBI Trade Receivables Discounting System (“TReDS”) to enable the formalization of MSMEs by providing access to credit. They empower small businesses to realize their growth potential by accelerating liquidation of their receivables. With its innovative digital platform, RXIL facilitates corporate buyers with a single seamless interface to provide their MSME suppliers access to capital at competitive rates, in less than 48 hours.

Earlier, in his welcome speech, IMC President Mr. Juzar Khorakiwala said that the main objective of the TReDS platform is to address the critical needs of MSMEs i.e. the twin issues of promptly en-cashing receivables and eliminating credit risk. TReDS platform of RXIL is expected to be a catalyst in the growth of MSMEs by bringing in transparency in the business ecosystem.

Mr. Khorakiwala further said that TReDS is the first attempt in India to introduce factoring without recourse to the seller and will help MSME Sellers, not only in quick realization of receivables but also efficient price discovery.

The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Mahesh Thakkar, Co-Chairman of IMC’s NBFC Committee and Director General, Finance Industry Development Council where he thanked RXIL for the initiative.

The webinar was attended by around 140 delegates.
